Today collection for the work of the Church through the media.

Did you know that on Tuesday 15th May over 60,000 Thirst for Change actions were delivered to No 10 Downing Street, calling on Prime Minister to turn the tide on water poverty? Secretary of State for International Development Andrew Mitchell praised the campaign and greeted CAFOD campaigners, saying: "We love CAFOD. Thank you very much for what you are doing: it's really good." What we lack is the political will and the financial commitment from world leaders to make clean water and safe sanitation available to all. That's why we've called on David Cameron to lead the G8 to act on water poverty - we'll be watching and waiting to see the result. Thank you for your support.
