Did you know .... that in terms of access to clean water, the World Health Organisation recommends at least 20 litres of water per day from a safe source (in other words, protected from outside contamination) and within 1 km distance of living quarters? In one refugee camp in Darfur, Sudan, CAFOD partners have set up solar-powered pumps that provide more than enough water for the 20,000 people living there. This is one of the many ways you've helped us provide water across the world.
